Vasep News

According to the Fisheries Office under Thanh Hoa Department of Agriculture and Rural Development, the total clam production in the whole province in the past 9 months has reached 4,000 tons.

After expanding more than 100 ha compared to 2009, the total clam farming area of the province amounted 600 ha. In March, 2010, some clam beds in Hai Loc (Hau Loc) and Hoang Truong (Hoang Hoa) were died, but the total production still increased by 36.43% over the same period of 2009. At present, these above-mentioned localities are the places with the largest farming areas and production of the province. Fisheries sector forecasts the clam production of 2010 to achieve 5,500 tons, up 33.46% against 2009. Most of farmed clam breed in Thanh Hoa are originated from Ben Tre. Currently, clam is being sold with the average wholesale price of 1.2 million VND/quintal. Clam farming area has created stable employment for hundreds of coastal labors and provided chances of making rich for many farming owners.
